

Bulk Sampling

Nuna is here to advance project development—beginning at exploration. Our participation in innovative bulk sampling programs offers a critical step that supports our clients' focus and defines their resources.

We go beyond the boundaries with a history that includes hauling large one-tonne sample bags across the frozen tundra. On a larger scale, our bulk sampling experience has included open pit mining and innovative and technically challenging drilling and trenching solutions. These tactics are adapted from the foundation industry, utilizing large diameter reverse circulation drills and vertical cutters to extract kimberlite from depths up to 350 meters.
